I can not believe the United States government is still trying to cripple our technology advancements. I'm not sure they are even listening to what they are saying, you can not broadcast local information because it then provides competition to the local stations. What is wrong with competition? Isn't competition what put the United States on top? If we take the competition out of the United State we become the USSR, which has already crashed and burned. We must get the government out of technology, and let us move forward.
